

Eric Crooker

Vice President, Contracts and Pricing

Eric Crooker is vice president, Contracts and Pricing, for Ingalls Shipbuilding, a division of Huntington Ingalls Industries. In this position, Eric and his team are responsible for contract award and administration, estimating and pricing, and export/import licensing and compliance.

Eric began his career with Huntington Ingalls in 2012 and served as a senior counsel for the Ingalls Shipbuilding division and chief counsel for Continental Maritime San Diego. During his tenure in the law department, Eric advised the corporation on a variety of issues related to its Navy and Coast Guard shipbuilding contracts, the Shipyard of the Future initiative and the acquisition of large capital assets. In 2017, Eric was promoted to director of contract administration at Ingalls.

Prior to joining HII, he practiced law in both Alabama and Louisiana in the areas of commercial litigation, employment law and business counseling.

Eric received a bachelor of science degree in economics and a Juris Doctor from Tulane University. He previously taught micro and macroeconomics as an adjunct professor at Louisiana College and from 1998-2001 worked in the New Orleans Office of Emergency Preparedness, ultimately serving as Deputy Director.

Huntington Ingalls Industries is America's largest military shipbuilding company and a provider of professional services to partners in government and industry. For more than a century, HII's Newport News and Ingalls shipbuilding divisions in Virginia and Mississippi have built more ships in more ship classes than any other U.S. naval shipbuilder. HII's Technical Solutions division provides a wide range of professional services through its Fleet Support, Mission Driven Innovative Solutions, Nuclear & Environmental, and Oil & Gas groups. Headquartered in Newport News, Virginia, HII employs more than 40,000 people operating both domestically and internationally.
